I first met Jay while working at the McLean Care Center. He was a joy to visit with. I remember him being hospitalized and staying over to sit with his mother, Ruby. She was just so worried about him and did not know what was going on. I recently went to McLean and grabbed some catfish before driving down and invited a friend to go with me. We sat and had supper together and had a nice visit. While I was there, Doyle Lee and his wife Cindy stopped in to say hello. It was a good day...I am sad to hear that my dear friend, Jay, has passed away. I have a couple of messages on my cell phone saved and go back and listen to them! He was quite an inspiration to me....RIP my friend ♥
